Biographical note

Frederick Joseph Mauriello was born in Boston, Massachusetts on October 20, 1921, the son of Italian immigrants Eugene Mauriello and Angeline Gaggiona. Mauriello joined the United States Army in 1942 and was given specialized training in electrical engineering. He was then assigned to the 309th Field Artillery Battalion and sent to Europe in 1944, where he served as a radio operator. After World War II, Mauriello received his undergraduate degree from Boston College and his graduate degree from Northeastern University. He began a long career with IBM and relocated to upstate New York. He died in August, 2004.
