Biographical Note:

The British writer Joseph Hilaire Peter Belloc was born in Celle Saint-Cloud, France, on 27 July 1870. In 1896 he married an American, Elodie Hogan, with whom he had five children -three sons and two daughters: Louis (1897), Eleanor (1899), Elizabeth (1900), Hilary (1902) and Peter (1904). Belloc began his literary career with Verses and Sonnets (1895). He next published The Bad Child's Book of Beasts (1896), a collection of nonsense verse that was so popular it sold out in four days. Belloc then produced a series of biographies that included Danton (1899) and Robespierre (1901). In 1902 he published Path to Rome, which is perhaps his most representative work for its combination of Belloc's love for travel, as well as his fierce Roman Catholicism. It recounts Belloc's journey on foot from Toul, France to Rome, Italy.

In 1906 Belloc was elected to the House of Commons as the representative for South Salford, a seat that he held until 1910. He left his political career to pursue journalism, founding the political journal, New Witness, with G.K. Chesterton. His political broadsides written with Chesterton and his brother, Cecil, were popularly known as the "Chesterbellocs." Belloc also served as editor of Land and Water, a journal devoted to the progress of the First World War, from 1914 to 1920. Elodie Belloc died in 1914, and Belloc's eldest son, Louis, was killed in 1918 while serving in World War I. Belloc's youngest son, Peter, a captain in the Royal Marines, would later die during World War II.

Belloc was decorated with the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Gregory the Great in 1934 by Pope Pius XI for his devotion to Catholicism as a writer. That same year, he was also awarded an honorary Master of Arts from Oxford University. Belloc published prolifically over the course of his life. He wrote 153 books of essays, fiction, history, biography, and poetry, as well as numerous articles for periodicals.

He continued to travel extensively until suffering a stroke in 1942. On 12 July 1953, Belloc accidentally fell into his fireplace while sleeping beside it. He was badly burned and died on 16 July 1953.

Scope and Contents

The Hilaire Belloc Papers spans over a century, from 1834 to 1970. The bulk of the materials are published and unpublished writings of Hilaire Belloc, including manuscripts, typescripts, proofs, galleys; reprints of various articles, essays, reviews, poetry, plays, prose, notes; and about eighty of Belloc's books. Among the other publications in this collection are a series of reviews of Belloc's books and articles; commentary on Belloc's politics; parliamentary materials saved by Belloc; and printed materials including book notices, lecture notices, syllabi, speeches, news clippings, leaflets, advertisements, and weekly journals.

The collection also contains an visual materials, including artwork and photographs, such as illustrations for Belloc's New Cautionary Tales drawn by Nicolas Bentley and photographic portraits of Hilaire Belloc, family members, friends, and associates. Other photographic materials include images of Belloc's King's Land Estate, photo albums, and sailing and ship photos. Also included in the visual materials are a photograph of Sir James Dunn's painted portrait of Hilaire Belloc, Maurice Baring, and G.K. Chesterton, entitled The Conversation, and over 1,000 printed maps.

Of particular note in this collection is an unpublished autobiography dictated by Belloc (circa 1936) and some sound recordings of Belloc's songs, including a phonograph entitled The Authentic Voice of Hilaire Belloc Singing with Ian Wallace, pressed circa 1970. The remainder of the materials in this collection include financial records, typescript diaries (1906-1917), memoranda and agenda (1904-1942), and approximately 30 manuscript diaries variously attributable to Hilaire Belloc, Elodie Hogan [Belloc], and Elizabeth Hogan.

Among the miscellaneous materials rounding out the collection are scrapbooks; materials found in scrapbooks; and an array of manuscript, published, and printed materials, such as un-posted postcards, an honors certificate, and two honorary degrees bestowed upon Hilaire Belloc (1887, 1920, 1929 respectively).

Series II: Diaries, Logs, Journals, and an Autograph Book, 1834-circa 1933

Scope and Contents

This series consists of typescript and manuscript diaries, journals, ship's logs, and an illness log, the bulk of which are dated between 1889 and 1933. Many of the bound diaries included here are Elodie and Eleanor Hogan's travel journals, written while on tour abroad from America, dated 1889 and 1890. The Hilaire Belloc diaries date between 1906 and 1917. One of the two ships' logs, both in Belloc's hand, is from the Nona and is undated. The remaining diaries, journals, ship's log, illness log, and autograph book, of this series range largely between 1834 and 1933.

Scope and Contents

The bulk of this series consists of scrapbooks mostly of articles and reviews of Belloc's authorial work between 1899 and 1909, along with some related printed materials such as an election poster, a book notice for The Path of Rome, and a lecture notice. Among the books prominently represented in the book reviews are The Pyrenees, The Path to Rome, Life of Danton, French Revolution, Esto Perpetua, Historic Thames, and New Cautionary Tales. This series also contains a poetry scrapbook collected from various publications circa 1887. Among the rest of the materials included in this series are miscellaneous items of poetry, correspondence, invitations, illustrations, photographs, articles, a receipt, and a book plate, that were tucked into the scrapbooks.
